

Anthroposophical Art and Study Course

for young people in search of a genuinely human way of knowing

How form arises from color, we shall investigate through painting, under the guidance of Caroline Chanter, director of the Rudolf Steiner Malschule. We shall use watercolors made from plants.

How color arises from the colorless, we shall investigate by physics experiments.

How Rudolf Steiner with his co-workers created in color and form, we shall investigate in visits to the Goetheanum and its surroundings.

Whoever wishes to prepare a contribution of his own will especially enrich our gathering. A list of suitable assignments is available upon request.
